Byaduk

Byaduk

Aboriginal for running water, Byaduk and nearby Byaduk North were developed on permanent streams that spring from the volcanic tunnels that stretch from Mt Napier to the sea.

BYADUK AND NORTH BYADUK

The first Europeans to settle in the Byaduk area were German speaking Prussians who took up land around their Church. Both townships were originally self-sufficient with a number of businesses such as grocery stores, a baker, blacksmith, boot maker, hotel, churches, schools, flour mill and butter factory.

Today the Byaduk township provides a lovely setting for a relaxing stop, picnic or meander through yesteryear whilst discovering either of the antique and collectable enterprises. The gorgeous peaceful surrounds are a great spot to stretch the legs in the social hub, encompassing the Mechanics Institute, pavilion, oval, play area and electric barbeque with ample parking space, shade and public toilet.

Byaduk features three War Memorials and the Avenue of Honour. The Boer War Memorial features a granite spire, whilst the First World War Memorial showcases a marble soldier. Nearby a memorial plaque commemoration to World War 2 is sited in line with the Avenue of Honour. Byaduk also holds its famous Spring Show annually in November.

For those visitors who have a family connection to the Byaduk area there are three cemeteries that record local family ancestors. These cemeteries are located at Byaduk, North Byaduk and at the rear of Zion Lutheran Church on Byaduk Lutheran Church Road.

VOLCANIC FEATURES

Many varied features of International significance are able to be visited in the Byaduk-North Byaduk area.

The Byaduk Caves, a series of natural lava tubes in the volcanic flow, is located within the Mount Napier State Park. Views of the youngest volcano in the district, Mount Napier, can be seen from the Hamilton-Port Fairy Road.

Between North Byaduk and Byaduk is Harman's Valley, one of the youngest lava flows dated on the continent. Harman's Valley lookout provides a long distance view of the lava flow with wonderful photo opportunities and detailed interpretive signage. Nearby, Old Crusher Road leads to the Tumuli (or lava blisters), a rare volcanic phenomenon seen as mounds of rocks up to 10 metres tall resulting from cooling lava.

Volcanic material can be seen in the honeycomb stone fences, bridges and buildings constructed from the dense bluestone.
